Alex Jones used to talk about both the “globalists” & the “breakaway civilization” — now he is firmly on the side of the “breakaway civilization” against the “globalists.”

This “breakaway civilization” is precisely what Elon Musk represents. A deeper deep state than the deep state of “globalism” — this is a breakaway civilization seeking supranational sovereignty without having to maintain “globalist welfare” etc

IE: not the globalists as represented by USAID soft power & welfare (what Kojève called “reverse imperialism” where the imperial powers control through “gifts” / loans etc)— but the cybernetic military financial reconnaissance wing of mercenaries contractors etc

“Breakaway civilization” means the international financial elite holding crypto wallets & having residency in a police state like El Salvador while employing its capital to extract rents, avoiding taxation, etc.

This is the plan for America— more police, less welfare. Bigger privatized prisons, smaller distributions of “welfare.” No income tax, & the privatization of all public goods.

What is this “breakaway civilization” but the ideal of Libertarianism? To breakaway from “responsibility for human welfare” & to maximize “individual liberty”? The State too must become privatized— neocameralism, moldbuggian real estate development fiefdoms &c

America seeks herein to become once again “the frontier” — & to extend that to space— here you can be a pirate with a letter of marque robbing & plundering with impunity. Commit your crimes & save your money in our encrypted cybercurrency, where no one can tax it.

This is an attempt not to produce what is called “technofeudalism” — but to produce a cargo cult of industrial capitalism once again— so that one lives in a “company town” on “company land” paid out in Employer-coin.

“Technofeudalism” is more the globalist option— Feudalism requires its NGOs— the lords have to maintain the Church— this is more like European Social Democracy. America is moving more toward “the Wild West”— private mercenaries on private estates

This “breakaway civilization” looks at China as the ultimate form of “technofeudalism” where it seeks rather “technoanarchy” — no central power, no collective interest, only the “liberty” of total atomization & liquidity

Got rugpulled? That’s on you. The State will not be making you whole for losing it all at the Casino. That was your individual choice & responsibility.

A “technofeudalism” would not allow its serfs to become drug addict casino zombies— that would hurt their productivity in providing surplus to the lords. Technoanarchy however has no issue with absolute lumpenization. No corvee labor make work programs — if you starve, you starve.

Maybe sell your organs? Maybe sell your cerebral cortex to house a neural implant that can harvest cryptocurrency while you sleep? No one owes you. There is no Lord to appeal to. You are on your own, you are on Mars now, no one is looking out for you.

The brutality of this will make Communism necessary— as people will have to form their own self-defense. Communism will arrive in America as the most productive “sovereignty corporation” — it will simply outcompete the rest.

This is how it happened in China with the collapse of the Qing into anarchy. The Communists simply outcompeted the other warlords (sovcorps).

“You might be dang commies but you’re the only sovcorps handing out a good deal to a working class man like myself.” That is how it will win.

When your option will be to live in “Private Capital Towers” or “The People’s Commune Corporation” — the former extracting rent to the utmost, the latter reinvesting profits into member benefits.

This “breakaway civ” cannot last as it is purely extractive & parasitic & there is in fact a limit to the humiliations men will accept.

I’m afraid that means we will actually discover that limit & it will be monstrous. I don’t think this can be avoided.

We will also get some cool stuff like last time— you got all this privatized infrastructure, like the entire NYC subway system etc— but it will be at the expense of human happiness
