Dominion Voting Systems is in big trouble after the filing by FOX News in its case with Dominion yesterday. FOX News uncovered through its discovery in the case that Dominion’s own employees expressed serious concerns about the security of its machines.

Dominion Voting Systems sued FOX News for $1.6 billion in a defamation lawsuit in March 2021. The AP reported on the suit in a very nasty and biased report.

The AP shared:

Dominion Voting Systems filed a $1.6 billion defamation lawsuit against Fox News on Friday, arguing the cable news giant falsely claimed in an effort to boost faltering ratings that the voting company had rigged the 2020 election.

The AP included numerous falsities and biases in its report, so much so that it looked like it was written by Dominion.

Since the 2020 Election, there has been a concerted effort by the Mainstream media to protect the results of the election and label anyone or any entity who challenges the uncertifiable results of the 2020 results as an election denier.

On Thursday, FOX News filed a brief in this case with Dominion Voting Systems. FOX News uncovered some material issues with Dominion and its voting systems. These items were so serious that Dominion employees expressed concerns about these issues.

Discovery in this case revealed that Dominion's own employees expressed serious concerns about the security of its machines.

Mark Beckstrand, a Dominion Sales Manager, confirmed that other parties "have gotten ahold of [Dominion's] equipment illicitly" in the past. Beckstrand identified specific instances in Georgia and North Carolina and testified that a Dominion machine was "hacked" in Michigan. Beckstrand confirmed that these security failures were "reported about in the news."

And just weeks before the 2020 presidential election, Dominion's Director of Product Strategy and Security, Eric Coomer, acknowledged in private that "our shit is just riddled with bugs." Indeed, Coomer had been castigating Dominion's failures for years. In 2019, Coomer noted that "our products suck." He lamented that "[a]lmost all" of Dominion's technological failings were "due to our complete f--- up in installation."

In another instance, he identified a "*critical* bug leading to INCORRECT results." Ex.H4, Coomer Email (Jan. 5, 2018). He went on to note: "It does not get much worse than that." And while many companies might have resolved their errors, Coomer lamented that "we don't address our weaknesses effectively!"

In addition, after the 2020 Election, Dominion received complaints from Georgia noting irregularities with machine counts that required employees to reprogram the machines.

Internal Dominion documents likewise confirm that Dominion machines suffered several potential glitches in the November 2020 election. After a security expert told the media that Dominion “software should be designed to detect and prevent th[e] kind of glitch” experienced in Antrim County, Michigan during the 2020 presidential election, Coomer told Dominion Vice President Kay Stimson: “He’s not entirely wrong.” Ex.H23, Coomer Email (Nov. 10, 2020). Likewise, in the immediate aftermath of the election, Dominion received complaints from jurisdictions in Georgia noting “irregularities with machine counts” that required Dominion’s employees “to reprogram the machines.” Ex.H24, Daulby Email (Nov. 8, 2020).

B. The 2020 Presidential Election And President Trump’s Allegations

As the November 3, 2020 election approached and several states altered their voting procedures in light of the COVID-19 pandemic, talk of potential election interference reached a fever pitch, with President Trump indicating that he would challenge the results if he suspected fraud. After Fox News called Arizona on election night and the media called the presidency for Joe Biden on November 7, President Trump claimed that the election was “far from over” and announced plans to bring litigation.
