

NIH Health Data Chief Admits COVID Vaccines Are Behind Global Surge in Sudden Deaths

Fact checked by The People'sVoice Community

The global surge in heart attacks is caused by COVID mRNA vaccines, according to Raja Cholan, Chief of the Health Data Standards Branch at the U.S. National Library of Medicine for the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

Cholan, whose role at the NIH focuses on ensuring the accuracy of health data, stated unequivocally that mRNA vaccines and boosters are driving the alarming increase in heart-related deaths globally, particularly among young people. Despite this, the mainstream medical establishment continues to dismiss these incidents as inexplicable.

"For people that are 30 or under, it really increases your risk for heart conditions," said Cholan. "The data does show that... I'm close enough to 30 to where I don't want to have a heart attack."

Cholan, who was speaking to an undercover O'Keefe Media Group journalist, also admitted he has not received the latest COVID vaccine boosters: "I haven't gotten the latest COVID shots, and I'm not going to... there's mixed evidence about if it really does anything."

Cholan further questioned the vaccines' effectiveness, stating, "I don't even know if these vaccines stop you from getting COVID. They don't."

The senior NIH official who worked under Dr. Anthony Fauci also linked the viral outbreak to the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), another Fauci institution.

"There is some evidence out that the National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases... they might have funded Wuhan, a lab in Wuhan, China, to make COVID."

He pointed to Fauci's former role at NIAID, claiming, "That's where Fauci was the director. Like they might have funded some labs to do vaccine studies and disease, like to prepare for an outbreak."

Criticizing the warp speed vaccine approval process, Cholan noted the extreme difference with the measles vaccine, which requires multiple rounds of testing:

"The measles vaccine requires several rounds of approval, but the COVID-19 vaccines were accelerated through the approvals for all of us to get our boosters."

It turns out the so-called "conspiracy theorists" were right all along.

But Cholan wasn't finished throwing his employers and Big Pharma industry under the bus.

He also highlighted the financial motivations behind the vaccines, saying, "Pfizer and Moderna are just getting a bunch of money from it."

According to Cholan, there is little hope of meaningful reform, even with an administration led by Robert F. Kennedy Jr., emphasizing the deeply entrenched ties between federal agencies and pharmaceutical companies. He remarked, "Anything that RFK would want to do probably would just, like, wouldn't happen."

Cholan did not respond to email requests for further comment. Notably, on the release day of the first installment of the NIH Tapes, Cholan deleted his LinkedIn account and has not posted on social media since.
