It's really funny how in the West, the "communists" immediately jump into visions of cosmic empires, the unification of a globe into a single world government is taken for granted, since the British Empire in the 19th century seemed to them to be the inevitable hegemon over the Globe-- but this tradition of thought is considered more or less "grounded in reality" as opposed to the humble 5 Year Plans of Eastern Communists, who in many ways refuse to describe what "the end state of Communism" even is, because their focus is solely upon their immediate conditions, & the horizons of the class war in that immediate moment.

In the early 20th century, the United Nations was built by Anglo Global Hegemony, & even the Eastern Communists agreed to partake in this dispensation-- but they ultimately turned the UN against Anglo Global Hegemony by this point in the 21st century, which is why there's a growing movement toward openly exiting the United Nations within the Anglosphere-- if the US didn't have super veto privileges in the Security Council & a tacit agreement that it does not have to adhere to any motions passed by the UN, it wouldn't be involved.

The pattern is distinct, & it is as follows.

The West is corrupted by it's immediate power over the Globe, & enchanted by its own visions of cosmic empire-- while the East almost completely forgoes this sort of epic romance in its deliberations-- it's focused entirely upon concrete issues in the present.

Simultaneous with the collapse of Western hegemony (ongoing in the 21st century) -- is, within itself, the collapse of its own cultural imaginary-- it can no longer imagine its own posited utopia, but only "what will be left after it fails" -- & all this is, is how, perversely, Westerners can imagine the concrete present reality before them-- only as mediated by a scientific-romantic fiction-- Westerners in the 00s needed Zombie movies to see the homeless fentanyl addicts that are in their future.

You can't convince a Westerner that "The Chinese Story" or "The Story of Eastern Communism" is what the Future entails-- for them, this can only be understood as one of the Dystopian fantasies projected upon them-- a vision of "The West has Fallen" -- they cannot imagine their own liberation.

Nobody in the West can present an actual vision of a future that is better than the present-- every Easterner easily imagines that their future will be better than their present, because they've been doing that for decades & it's paid off.

It's good that the Chinese got their hands on Marx, so that they can do the ideas justice, because they have never been a "moralistic" or "moralizing" society-- rather, they've always been metaphysical pragmatists, having created the preconditions for western science in Taoist Alchemy millennia ago.

Most of the "right wing" critiques of "Marxism" are correct simply because "Western Marxists" are petite bourgeois clerks & priests who derive their livelihood from rent-extraction by upholding a pretense to "moral concern" -- the Chinese Communist is not a moralist.

Moralism "feels right" -- but is actually unintuitive & incorrect. A moralist becomes a vegan, which is an asinine sort of behavior. Jesus Christ was not a moralist, which is why he was killed by the moralizing Pharisees. Jesus forgave sin. This is intolerable to

"It is so customary for the Members of the Corps Diplomatick, to make Ex officio representations of Such Ebullitions in Newspapers to the Administration of the Government to which they are Accredited; that it must be acknowledged to be much to the honour of the Gentlemen who are here from Spain Holland and England, that they have not hitherto persecuted the President & secretary of State with Remonstrances against our Newspapers. Their Silence is a Proof of their Moderation, their Patience and their Tenderness for the Freedom of the Press. I Suppose too that they make allowances for our Youth and Inexperience of the World. For Our Ignorance of what in Europe is known and acknowledged to be the Delicacy and Decency, due to all foreign nations and their Governments. We claim a Right, very justly to the form of Government We like best. Every Nation in Europe has the Same Right and if they judge Monarchy to be necessary for their Happiness, What Right have We to reproach, much less to insult them? Supposing ourselves to be Judges of what kind of Government is best for them, a Supposition however which We cannot modestly make and which is certainly ill founded, We should have no right to impose upon them our Ideas of Government, any more than our principles of Religion or

When did people begin to realize that their phones actually were listening to them & serving advertisements based on that knowledge? You used to be called a schizo for saying “My phone is listening to me & sending me advertisements based upon my private conversations”

The actual conditions of life are schizophrenic now— it’s the consequence of the means of production being centralized in private (occult) control. There are literally boardrooms where execs of multinational conglomerates try to plan your consumer demand through psychological war

There’s an ad campaign ongoing from Kelloggs (W. K. Kellogg Foundation(17.6%) Gordon Gund (6.1%) KeyCorp (6.1%) etc) running on youtube media designated for children which has children demanding cereal for dinner, to produce a new demand for cereal.

Americans suffer most from believing that there's literally nowhere else on Earth that even remotely approaches America-- imagine really believing that this, here, is the best that there is-- this corrupt empire is the best it gets, everything else is worse, even-- that's Hell.

"Russia? That's a shithole, garbage, a mafia gas station with nukes, I pity the Russians, they would be more free in America. China? That's a shithole, communism, slavery to authoritarians, completely lied to, poor, forced to repeat lies, surveilled, just awful. America is horrible & yet that's the best that it gets, everyone else has it even worse."

That's what Communism has that no other ideology has-- it's the recognition of, after all the evil in the world, the ultimate triumph of the good. Only Communists can look at Russia & China & say "You know what, we should learn from some of what they're doing
