

Haz Al-Din 🇷🇺

@InfraHaz

2h · 1 tweets · 3 min read · Read on X

Subscribe

Bookmark

Save as PDF

Why does the deep state fear MAGA?

The deep state ideology frames America's new 'cold war' as based on the battle between 'democratic' and 'authoritarian' societies like Russia and China.

They see MAGA as aligned with the 'authoritarian' camp and thus a 'threat to democracy.'

This is why they lost their minds about 'Russian disinformation infecting our democracy.'
This is also why they are trying to ban TikTok.

What the 'authoritarian' countries have in common is forms of political authority based on responsiveness to the people, rather than institutions and oligarchies.

They are led by 'strong men' who keep bureaucracies and institutions in check, to make sure they don't become corrupt or form into oligarchies.

We see this in Xi's anti-corruption drives, and Putin's curtailing of the Russian oligarchy.

All of this is based on the legacy of Communism, and 'Stalinism' in particular.

Both Stalin and Mao similarly leveraged their authority to champion the masses interests where it conflicted with lower level party bosses.

In Communist states, the chief goal is attending to the collective prosperity of the whole people, by unleashing economic development, and ensuring social mobility.

This way oligarchies do not form who gatekeep institutions.

Rising and newly educated lower segments of society acquire the opportunity to climb the ranks and replace older elites.

New methods of production get implemented which constantly transform the relations of production, to prevent the formation of new classes.

MAGA strives for something relatively similar in America - flushing out the oligarchical gatekeepers and institutional elites, to give the common man a chance.

While ideologically confused, the deep state recognizes this to be a form of 'American authoritarian' politics, where masses of people rally behind Trump as a symbol of arbitrarily delegated popular authority against institutions.

The point of MAGA Communism was just to acknowledge consciously that MAGA is aligned with a new form of political power that is based on the legacy of 20th century Communism.

So why is it that on X, fascistic ideologies are being promoted?

Because the deep state wants to SEVER the possibility of any connection MAGA has with Russia and China.

They only fear MAGA because of its perceived alignment with Russia and China.

If they can get MAGA to love NATO and hate Russia and China, MAGA is neutralized as a threat.

One of the ways they're doing this is spreading NeoN*zi ideology and trying to boost anti-Communism.

China is ruled by a Communist Party.

Modern Russia was built by Communism.

The Nazis killed nearly 30 million Russians. Communism and Nazism are opposed.

By whipping up sympathy for far right ideology based on a twisted view of history, the deep state is making it more possible to corral MAGA into support for NATO.

You can argue about ideology all you want, but here are the facts:

- The deep state was created to crush Communism.
- The main global challengers of deep state hegemony have materially Communist foundations.
- Neo-Fascists were recruited as mercenaries by the CIA during the cold war to fight the USSR and Communist Parties in Operation Gladio.
- While some try to claim that 'national socialism' also challenges oligarchical rule, the facts show that it was a tool by the oligarchy to mobilize all sectors of society for WAR against its enemies.

MAGA will either awaken to Communism or it will die off.

By the way, not a single far-right ideologist will debate me on any of this live. They all run away. Ask yourself why that is? Because they are bad faith actors pushing the deep state agenda.